

Federal Agency Registration (FedReg)

Overview

The Federal Agency Registration (FedReg) system facilitates the collection and information dissemination of Federal entities engaged in intra-governmental buying or selling. Trading partners are identified by a Business Partner Network (BPN) Number, which is the DUNS number for civilian agencies and DODACCs for DoD agencies. FedReg provides point of contact and other general information about the trading partner. FedReg also provides a central location for federal sellers to assist in source selection activities.

FedReg is a government-wide system that collects and disseminates Federal business partner data across the government. The system provides point of contact and contract information to aid in transaction reconciliations; provides a Federal "Yellow Pages," where government buyers can go to find government sources for goods and services; and increases Federal sellers' visibility in the procurement arena and helps lower costs to the government by potentially increasing competition.

Program Mission

FedReg provides the single authoritative source of Federal and Departmental entities engaged in intragovernmental transactions. FedReg allows each intragovernmental transaction to have information attached to it about each trading partner. .

Benefits

The FedReg system:

- Provides insight into Department and Federal Government supplier base;
- Provides centralized source to collect and disseminate government business partner data; and
- Increases government sellers' visibility in the procurement arena and helps lower costs by potentially increasing competition.
